Akbar The Great (1542-1605) was the Mughal Emperor who ruled India from 1556 to 1605. Akbar himself was illiterate, but he invited several learned people in his court. Among these people, nine were very famous and were called Nav Ratan (nine jewels of the Mughal) of his court. Among these nine jewels, five people were more famous--- Tansen, Todarmal, Abul Fazal, Maan Singh and Birbal.

Stories of Birbal are very famous and popular among people of all ages. They are also called by another name Akbar—Birbal Stories.

Once a farmer and his neighbour went to Akbar's court with a complaint. 'Your Majesty, I bought a well from him,' said the farmer to his neighbour, and he wants me to pay for the water. "That's right, your Majesty," said the neighbour. 'I sold him the well but not the water.' The Emperor asked Birbal to settle the dispute, 'Didn't you say that you sold your well to this farmer?' Birbal asked the neighbour. "So the well belongs to him now, but you have kept your water in his well. Is that right? Well, in that case you will have to pay him the rent or take your water out at once," The neighbour realized that he was outwitted. He quickly apologized and gave up his claim.
